

AT SPECIAL TERM IT SAVES MONEY

Archibald Sweet May Be Tried in February, Says Stubbs.

County Attorney of Grant Here to See Brewster.

Archibald Sweet, charged with the murder of Nellie Byers, the Grant county school teacher, may be tried in February at a special term of the Grant county district court. That was the statement today of H. R. Stubbs, county attorney of Grant county, who came to Topeka for a conference with S. M. Brewster, attorney general.

Stubbs declared that the state had been unable to make further progress in securing evidence against Sweet. Sentiment in western Kansas against Sweet has subsided, the county attorney said, and he believed that the accused man could now be tried without danger of mob violence. The next regular term of the Grant county district court will not be held until April. Stubbs now desires a special court term for the trial of the man. He will probably ask the court to name an attorney for Sweet that the man may be ready for a hearing at an early date.

Sickness in his family prevented Brewster's leaving Topeka last week and Stubbs came to Topeka today for the conference which was to have been held in western Kansas. The Grant county attorney spent an hour with Brewster this afternoon and details of the case against Sweet were discussed. "The state has not been able to gather new evidence against Sweet," Stubbs stated, "and it is probable that we must go to trial with the same testimony which was gathered the first few days following the killing."

Lack of new evidence, however, was not regarded by Stubbs as a fatal flaw in the case against the alleged slayer of the school teacher.

"We have ample evidence to warrant a conviction, I believe, and are ready for trial any time," asserted the county attorney. "It is probable that we will ask for a hearing in February. The regular court term will not be held until April and we are anxious to dispose of the case. We are ready for trial at any time that pleases the convenience of the attorney general."

Sweet is still kept in solitary confinement. Stubbs visited Judge C. H. Johnson today, declared that he made no effort to talk with the prisoner. Before the trial, however, another effort probably will be made to force a confession from Sweet's lips.

DR. WOOD IS SHOCKED

He Finds Two Drug Stores Employing Clerks Afflicted with Tuberculosis.

It was disclosed today by H. B. Wood, city physician, that a Topeka drug clerk, afflicted with tuberculosis, dispensed drugs and soda water to all customers up to the time he was confined to his bed a week ago. Also that another drug clerk who died of tuberculosis suffered from the disease for four years and sold drugs and soda water to Topeka patrons of the store up to two weeks before his death.

"I was shocked when I learned too late," said Dr. Wood today, "but the very next time I find an employer who is endangering the lives of his customers in this manner I am going to make the matter public. It is criminal negligence on the part of the employer."

Dr. Wood asserts that every person who came in contact with these clerks through the purchase of compounded drugs and fountain drinks exposed himself to the dread disease, consumption.

"No druggist or storekeeper where drugs or foods are sold should employ anyone unless perfectly sure he is free of infectious disease," said Dr. Wood. "Physical examination and a doctor's certificate should be required."

"It is dangerous for anyone suffering from tuberculosis to handle foods and drugs. And if the druggist or other employers have such people in their stores they may expect that the public will soon find out the danger and avoid such stores."

"One druggist admitted that his tubercular clerk had been to California for his health and had taken other trips in the last two years and knew he had a cough, yet he persisted in allowing the clerk to handle medicines. Medicines are supplied to cure people of disease and not to subject them to other diseases. It was the duty of the druggist when he knew his clerk was sick and knew how common tuberculosis is in this city to make sure that his employee was not endangering the lives of his patrons. People who are sick from other causes are particularly subject to the development of infectious diseases and they should not be endangered by buying medicine infected by germs."

HAS BEEN A WET YEAR

Exceeded Only by 1909 in the Amount of Rainfall.

Topeka is on its way to a very wet year—climatically. According to figures at the local weather office 44.33 inches of rain has fallen in Topeka during the year 1915. This is the second wettest year on record. In 1909 the moisture mark went to 45.98, which is the wettest year ever experienced in Topeka. The normal rainfall for a year in the city is 32.74 inches. Last year there was 20 inches of rain.

Not only has this year been a wet one but it has been unusually cloudy also. Up to the present date there have been 116 cloudy days. The year is going straight for a record in the way when the clear days of late November and early December spoiled all the clouds. There has been only one colder day than 1915, according to the local records, and that one was 1896, when there were 121 cloudy days.

Judge Fisher's Parole System Worked Well This Year.

Applied to 55 Persons—But Three Violations Recorded.

The parole system of Judge Hugh Fisher, of the Court of Topeka, has saved the county $2,149 since Judge Fisher's term of office began, according to records of the Court of Topeka. From January 19, 1915, fifty-five persons have been paroled by the court. Generally these persons were under heavy sentence. The total time not served was 4,298 days. The cost of keeping a prisoner for the county for food alone is 50 cents a day.

But three of those paroled violated the parole. One got drunk; one returned to Shawnee county after he was paroled to "get out and stay away," and one violated the law by stealing.

A large per cent of those paroled were colored persons. Several were women and a number were married men with families to support. Of the three who violated their parole one was a white man, one a colored man and the other a colored boy.

The sentences in a large number of these cases were higher than if the court expected serious trouble. The principle being that if a man is given a heavy sentence and either paroled or not, he will be in the court. Judge Fisher believes that they have had their lesson and will obey the law. Of all the married men paroled but one has violated his parole and he has a criminal record. In one other instance it was necessary for the wife to notify the court that her husband was not providing for his family the way she thought he should. The husband was called before the court and nothing further was complained of.

In commenting on his system today Judge Fisher said: "It is the belief of the court that the public is interested in making unfortunate men and women good citizens, rather than keeping them confined in jail. If a married man is confined in jail, his family generally suffers considerably more than if he were out, particularly when he must support his family or return to jail."
